Managua, Nicaragua, May 6.—(AP)—President Coolidge considers retention of Adolfo Diaz as a question of "honor and prestige" and is prepared to authorize the American marines here forcibly to disarm those of the warring groups in Nicaragua unwilling to lay down their arms, the liberal peace delegates today announced they have been informed by Henry L. Stimson, President Coolidge's personal representative.

The liberal delegates, in a statement given to the Associated Press, declared that Mr. Stimson informed them that if the liberals refused to accept the condition that President Diaz complete his term which ends in 1928, "the marines would proceed forcibly to disarm the liberal troops."

Fighting Predicted.
The statement said that the liberals would not accept this condition and expressed the fear that if any attempt should be made by the marines under present conditions to disarm liberal soldiers, fighting would result.

General Jose Moncada, commander-in-chief of the liberal forces, before leaving this morning for his headquarters after the peace conference, said that since he had been informed that the United States would force disarmament of his men, he was prepared to advise them to lay down their arms as it was useless to attempt to fight the United States.

In support of their claim that Mr. Stimson threatened the use of force to disarm the liberals, if necessary, the liberal statement included the Memphis, May 6.—(AP)—More than 100,000 of the 173,593 refugees in the 60 concentration camps within seven states of the Mississippi valley flood area had been immunized today with typhoid and smallpox vaccine as medical forces in the area in their task of preventing post-flood epidemics.

With a small scattering of new cases of both these dread diseases reported to Dr. William R. Rodden, medical director of the Red Cross, efforts were made to hasten vaccination for all persons in the flood zone, since the gradual recession of waters is expected to accentuate dangers from disease.

Vaccination has been extended to reach those persons not in refugee camps but who have elected to remain in their flooded homes or in places of security within flooded towns.

Meanwhile, the Red Cross, fearing that the chain of levees on the Atchafalaya river in south central Louisiana may break before the strain of flood waters from the Mississippi river ceases, moved to establish new relief area centers in the parishes of St. Martin and St. Landry.

Advised by residents of those parishes that a break in the levee would be only a matter of time, Henry M. Baker, national director of disaster relief for the Red Cross, ordered supplies rushed to the section where the relief work will be undertaken chiefly

Kontz, Russell In Bitter Charter Clash

Judge Rallies To Support
Hartsfield, Accused of Lying About Proposal.

First blood in the city manager charter campaign in Atlanta was drawn Friday night, when pro and anti forces clashed and debated over whether William B. Hartsfield, alderman from the third ward, "has lied about the new charter all over the city," as Councilman Horace Russell, champion of the new scheme of government, charged.

Judge Ernest C. Kontz, general chairman of the anti-new charter forces, promptly rallied to the support of Mr. Hartsfield, who also is one of the leaders in the fight against the proposed city manager charter.

"Hartsfield is nobody's liar or nobody's fool," Judge Kontz declared. "Mr. Russell used harsh and strong language. On the contrary Mr. Hartsfield is a gentleman and is serving Atlanta in city council."

The clash occurred when Mr. Russell referred to certain civil service classified clauses in the new charter, which he claimed Mr. Hartsfield had misconstrued. Judge Kontz took the new charter and read a provision which he contended supported Mr. Hartsfield's opinion that any employee of the city government, under the new charter, could be dismissed summarily, and that the victim would have no recourse, because he would be tried, if he demanded one, by the same persons who discharged him.

Pointing out what he termed three outstanding defects of the present city government, Mr. Russell launched his fight on these as a basis and attempted to show that all these ills would be corrected under the regime of a city manager.

"The first glaring defect is that there are too many in council; the second is that the committee system of administration of the city's business is cumbersome, slow and inefficient; the third is that a political machine even greater and more powerful than that which it has been charged would be formed by the adoption of the new charter exists," the speaker said.

"Previous mayors have left office proclaiming that the large council defeats good legislation and is a stumbling block to good government. They have recommended a smaller council, and we are offering you a smaller council in this new charter."

"Sometimes the political machine sits with feet in a window at the city hall and prevents enactment of proper legislation. That gentleman is Walter C. Taylor, city clerk."

"Schools of the city are in a sad plight financially. They must have more money, and the present government is unable to give it to them. We propose to provide the additional money needed by economy of operation and efficiency."

Kontz States Side.
"This proposed new charter is crammed full of damnable propositions to which members of the new charter committee would not dare ask Atlanta to subscribe under ordinary circumstances."

When the bodies of the two stenographers, the last found, were removed with great difficulty, police were taxed to the utmost to restrain the thousands of spectators who had gathered from the tenements of the east side and blackened streets, roofs and fire escapes. When the morgue wagon rolled away, a wall went up, women became hysterical and two faint.

CIVIC CLUBS JOIN IN URGING PROMPT BOND SETTLEMENT

Mayor Importuned To Call Council Session on Eve of Conference With Councilmanic Chairmen

On the eve of a meeting of chairmen of affected committees on the proposed settlement of litigation involving the $8,000,000 bond issue at 11 o'clock today to decide whether a special meeting of council will be called for Monday, nine outstanding civic organizations joined in calling on the mayor to issue the special council call.

Under terms of the proposed compromise Thomas E. Brady, of Los Angeles, and about half dozen others would get $20,000 in settlement of all claims for damages, and attorneys representing them would not file an appeal to the supreme court of the United States.

While Mayor Ragsdale has indicated that he will be governed largely by what committee chairmen think best in calling the extra council session, it was learned Friday that he has interviewed several other influential members of council concerning the matter. A definite decision is expected to be reached at the conference this morning.

Settlement Favored.
Those in favor of the settlement pointed out that nothing could be lost in calling the extra session and placing squarely up to council the compromise issue, and importuned the mayor to give the matter that direction.

Chairmen of committees called are Alderman William B. Hartsfield, of the bridge committee; Councilman Willie Moore, of the sewers and city hall committee; Claude Ashley, of the water committee; and Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the schools committee.

An unofficial poll indicated that sentiment favors placing the matter before general council, these men declaring they feel they should not act up.

Hospital.

Thought by doctors to be dying, N. J. Edmondson, of 645 Woodward avenue, lay unconscious at Grady hospital late Friday night, while J. C. Hayes, a neighbor, was held at police headquarters under a charge of assault with intent to murder.

The injured man was struck down on his own front porch by a poker buried by Hayes, according to Taft Duncan, a young man who lives across the street from the Edmondson home.

Edmondson was unconscious when the Grady ambulance and police arrived and had not regained consciousness at a late hour Friday.

His wife and son, M. J. Edmondson.

TESTIMONY ENDS IN SNYDER-GRAY SLAYING TRIAL

Packed Courtroom Hears
Evidence Come to Close as Widow Is Given Lie
by Last Witness.

BY TOM PETTY.

New York, May 6.—The Snyder murder trial has reached the oratorical stage. The evidence is all in. Today saw the last witness climb down from the stand in Queens court, and Justice Townsend Scudder ordered a recess until Monday morning when the business of summing up by counsel will take place. Some time Monday afternoon the justice will deliver his charge to the jury, and the fate of Ruth Brown Snyder and her co-salesman-lover, Henry Judd Gray, will be decided.

Judd Gray came to the end of his four-day ordeal this afternoon. Six character witnesses, four of them women but none of them blondes, followed, and told what a fine fellow he would be. Then the little sash-wigged case was ended.

The state called one rebuttal witness, Leroy Ashfield, the man who sold Mrs. Snyder the $50,000 insurance on her husband's life. He denied he ever had told her she could get her money back on the policies in three years as she swore on the witness stand.

Mrs. Snyder's attorney, Edgar Hazleton, asked the witness if he knew of anyone else connected with the company who had told Mrs. Snyder she could get her money back. Ashfield said he did not.

Then as the insurance man allowed his way through aisles packed deep with women spectators, a buzz swept over the courtroom. It was only 3:30 p. m., and they had come for a full day of thrills. Most of them had fought their way in under the arms of a cordon of policemen and they were standing and sitting everywhere except in the laps of the jurymen. A sigh of regret that swelled to a moan spread throughout the huge high vaulted room as the court ordered a recess.

BUILDING TOPPLES; SEVEN ARE KILLED

Mysterious Explosion Wrecks New York Office Housing Sixty
Workers and Clerks.

New York, May 6.—(AP)—After finding seven bodies among huge concrete blocks of a two-story concrete building which with a mysterious explosion collapsed this afternoon, fatigued and drenched workers late today decided nothing more could be done until daylight.

Severely handicapped by water which filled the cellar from a broken water main and which could not be entirely pumped out by fire engines, workers struggled with the wreckage until long after dark, aided by powerful searchlights mounted on an adjacent roof.

When the search was given up for the night, all of the 60 occupants of the building had been accounted for but there remained the possibility that passersby may have been mutilated or drowned when the walls crumbled and were partly submerged.

The dead:
Florence Cavanaugh, 19, stenographer.
Elizabeth Lovinger, 20, stenographer.
William E. Kelleher, 32, attorney.
Charles J. Quinlan, 35, head of claim department.
Charles Malasky, 21, clerk, legal department.

Frank Zornmullen, 28, attorney.
Robert O'Rourke, 25, filing clerk.
All were employees of the Yellow Taxicab company, whose offices were housed in the East 23rd street building.

Of the 40 injured, none of the 11 who remained at the Bellevue hospital tonight was considered in a critical condition.
When the bodies of the two stenographers, the last found, were removed with great difficulty, police were taxed to the utmost to restrain the thousands of spectators who had gathered from the tenements of the east side and blackened streets, roofs and fire escapes. When the morgue wagon rolled away, a wall went up, women became hysterical and two faint.

LAWYERS IN LANCE TRIAL IN FIERY PLEAS TO JURY

GUILTY? or INNOCENT?
Sam Hewlett Demands
Electric Chair for Lance in Dramatic Speech.

"No golden voiced orator—no silver tongue can save a man from paying the extreme penalty in Georgia for a crime so atrocious as this one. Electrocution for Jack Lance, and may God have mercy on his soul."

This was the dramatic declaration made Friday night by Sam Hewlett, prominent Atlanta lawyer, who is assisting Solicitor General Boykin in the prosecution of Jack Lance for the murder of Bert Donaldson, crime investigator.

In the state's opening argument to the jury, which consumed an hour and five minutes, Attorney Hewlett pleaded for a death verdict for Lance.

"Beginning on July 25 and again on July 28, three men—members of a dangerous gang—registered in the Patten hotel in Chattanooga. These men were there preparing to commit a brutal and heinous and atrocious crime."

"The defendant, Jack Lance, was involved. From the testimony of T. J. Robinson, night watchman at the Henry Grady hotel, Lance himself said that he came through Cartersville on the night of the murder. He bragged to Robinson about how his car had performed on the trip. It was a rainy bad night and he had gone to Chattanooga to bring one of these men back to Atlanta."

"Why? To kill Donaldson?"
"Then as the insurance man allowed his way through aisles packed deep with women spectators, a buzz swept over the courtroom. It was only 3:30 p. m., and they had come for a full day of thrills. Most of them had fought their way in under the arms of a cordon of policemen and they were standing and sitting everywhere except in the laps of the jurymen. A sigh of regret that swelled to a moan spread throughout the huge high vaulted room as the court ordered a recess."

"At 8 o'clock Donaldson called Lance at the Henry Grady hotel while Kathleen Brooks was in Lance's room. This defendant (pointing a shaking finger at Lance) then went to the Georgian Terrace. At 8:25 Lance was at the Georgian Terrace. Mrs. W. B. Mathers saw him on the third floor of the hotel. She could not forget that face of his. Lance pulled his hat down to hide his face and sneaked away. Then he came back to the Henry Grady hotel. His plans were complete for the bloodiest murder ever committed in this section."

"He then went back to the Georgian Terrace with Fleming King and other members of his 'lowly' gang. He was seen by another witness sitting apparently in a shadow on the porch at the hotel. Waiting—waiting for his friend to meet him and to carry him to his death."

"Evidently he watched for the lights of an automobile telling him of the arrival of his prey. He must have told Donaldson to go to the side door of the hotel because it was at the side door that he met him. They went in the Ponce de Leon avenue entrance and the elevator boy, Robert Bentley, carried them up."

LED WAY TO DEATH ROOM.
"Lance took Donaldson to the room—his death room. He gave a sign by turning the knob on the door and then he turned around and took Donaldson down and across the street. They

Man and River Lock THOUSANDS LABOR TO SAVE STRAINING DIKES In Desperate Struggle

BY ALFRED P. RECK.

New Orleans, May 6.—(United News).—Hold the river! That is the watch cry of thousands of workers, laboring, sweating and cursing to prevent further breaks in the levees between Old River landing and New Orleans.

The prize is several thousand square miles of rich farmland and industrial sites. Whether man or the river wins, time alone can tell. All day and into the night was one of the most dramatic battles ever staged to keep the mighty Mississippi within its bounds. It is hard work and back breaking, placing thousands of sandbags, and building embankments under a broiling sun, with a swollen and muddy river racing by a few feet away—but it is thrilling.

Morning turns into noon, noon to evening and evening to night, but still the labor gangs, directed by a combined force of federal and state engineers, continue their work. Minutes and even seconds count—none are wasted.

If man wins, then the worst of the greatest flood in history will be over. If the Mississippi river wins, then new suffering will take place and additional thousands will be forced to flee from the wrath of a river unchecked.

The real danger points lie to the south of the Old river mouth where waters from 20 states are joined with the main flow of the Mississippi.

Additional crevasses to the north would simply put additional water over land already flooded, but break to the south would add new territory to areas already captured by the river. No additional breaks were reported today, but crevasses at Milliken Bend and near St. Joseph were widening and allowing more and more water to pour over the northeastern parishes. This has increased the difficulty of rescue work and considerable apprehension is felt for the safety of hundreds remaining in the inundated sections.

Rescue work is continuing with boats of all descriptions operating out of Vicksburg and Natchez.

New villages are being claimed by the flood as it pushes southward and many settlements have been caught in the direct current of the overflow and destroyed.

But slight change was noted today in the river levels.

LANCE IDENTIFIED AS SEEN IN HOTEL

Solicitor Boykin, Defense
Attorneys Branch and
Howard, Make Closing
Pleas This Morning.

Before dusk descends today 12 men will start deciding whether or not Jack Lance should be killed.

For, unless unforeseen obstacles interfere, the jury sitting in the trial of the state of Georgia versus Jack Lance for the murder of Bert Donaldson will have retired to its room to deliberate upon the circumstantial evidence which the state has presented to it the past four days in an effort to prove that Jack Lance was responsible for the cowardly assassination of the solicitor general's special investigator in the Georgian Terrace hotel on July 29, 1926.

Defense and prosecution had alternate innings in the courtroom of Judge G. H. Howard Friday night, when arguments were delivered as the beginning of the trial's conclusion. The 12 men on the jury sat back to hear seven intelligent, prominent lawyers voice contrasting opinions as to the guilt of the principal of the sensational case—Jack Lance, who sat sally in his chair, smiling.

Arguments Begun.
Eugene Dickey opened for the defense by declaring to the jury that the state had failed utterly to present a motive for the murder. Then followed forceful Sam Hewlett, for the state, who, with dramatic eloquence, pleaded for the life of Lance—the supreme penalty for the alleged murder of Bert Donaldson. Slow, concise Paul Carpenter, another Lance lawyer, terminated the night session by a convincing argument, which based its logic on the prevalence of "a reasonable doubt" as to the guilt of his client.

The conclusion of the presentation of evidence by the state—the defense having failed to produce a single witness—came at 5:30 Friday after the defense had suffered its greatest blow since the beginning of the trial last Tuesday.

Opening the day with a statement by the defendant, Lance, the defense appeared to be well satisfied with the course of the trial. Then followed a rebuttal witness who was wholly unexpected by the brilliant assemblage of legal talent defending the accused man.

Biggest Coup of Trial.
It was Mrs. Lulu Morris, mother-in-law of Jack Lance, brother of the

FIFTY U. S. CONVICTS' PAROLES APPROVED

Fifty out of 270 applicants were approved for clemency at the May term of the federal penitentiary parole board Thursday and Friday at the Atlanta prison, it was revealed Friday afternoon at the close of the session.

Captain Albert H. Conner, superintendent of federal prisons, attended the parole board session, and left Friday afternoon for Washington at the conclusion of the meeting.

Nearly all of those approved for parole are trustees at the honor farms of the institution, and all successful applicants have served a third or more of their terms. The recommendations of the parole board go to Attorney General Sargent for his approval.

The next meeting of the parole board will be on September 3, when it is expected that more than 800 inmates of the penitentiary will have their cases examined on parole applications.

MILLION ACRES IN FLOOD VALLEY MUST BE SEEDED

Washington, May 6.—(P)—Prospect that probably one million acres of crop land will have to be seeded in the Mississippi valley by the Red Cross or other relief agency because of the flood was presented today to the Red Cross in a report from C. W. Warburton, director of the department of agriculture's extension service.

He estimated that ten thousand square miles of grounds in the flooded area, exclusive of Louisiana, and that half of it represents improved farm land.

BOOTHE CONTINUES BATTLE FOR LIFE

Roanoke, Va., May 6.—(AP)—Grimly fighting at the very portals of death, and tightening his hold time after time on life, Walter Boothe was still alive at a local hospital tonight. Attendants standing over his bed were forcing air into his lungs by artificial respiration, were compelled to quicken the movement of his arms to a fast pace during the day. Each hour, his physicians say, the gulf between the fighting man and death is becoming narrower. His lungs ceaselessly clamoring for more air, his paralyzed body inert and helpless, Boothe still carries on with a high courage that is undimmed in face of death.

SOLDIERS GUARD NUNGESSER PLANE

Le Bourget, France, May 6.—(AP)—In a guarded shed in this airport Captain Charles Nungesser's plane, the "White Bird," is receiving the finishing touches of preparation for the projected flight of the French war ace from this base to New York. It had been expected that the take-off would take place before dawn tomorrow, but after a conference this evening at which weather conditions were studied it was reported that the fliers were unlikely to leave tomorrow.

Captain Nungesser and Captain Francis Coli flew from Villa-Coublay to this starting base this afternoon. After a perfect flight they made a flawless landing here.

As the bi plane came down to earth a squadron of guards with fixed bayonets rushed out on the field and drove the crowd of reporters and photographers over the deadline between the civilian and military aviation fields. But the crush was so great that the crowd broke through the cordon, whereupon a whole company was called out and surrounded the machine. The guard which is being maintained tonight is so efficient that the photographers were unable to take close-ups of the plane.

Rations of Captain Nungesser and Captain Coli during the flight will be, for the most part, cold dishes such as caviar, bananas, pates de foies gras, sandwiches and good tea, coffee and chocolate. They will have an alcohol lamp for the heating of beverages.

100 SMALLPOX
CASES CLOSE
VIRGINIA SCHOOLS

Gate City, Va., May 6.—(AP)—With nearly 100 cases of smallpox reported scattered in 12 communities in Scott county, the majority of the public schools have been closed, and the county board of health has requested that there be no public gatherings for at least 30 days.

Shoemaker high school was closed Friday for an indefinite period.

The board of health declared it felt that all schools in the county likewise should close until after danger from the epidemic has passed.

British Picture
Policy Defended
By Ambassador

Los Angeles, May 6.—(AP)—America's giant motion picture industry and her foreign policies were contrasted with those of Europe by Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, who spoke at a luncheon.

"I have seen press articles in this country criticizing the new law lately brought into parliament in England giving certain preference to British films in British theaters," he stated.

"Well, perhaps it is all wrong to protect one's infant industries against young and husky giants like this one in Hollywood, but I seem to remember that Uncle Sam has not been altogether adverse to such a policy in the past and has not even yet entirely abandoned it when he thinks it necessary."

Speaking of the foreign policy of the United States, the ambassador said:

"You citizens of this country have, up until recently, been in the happy condition of hardly knowing the necessity of a foreign policy. You were internal developments that foreign commerce was a present and exhilarating but not important part of the entertainment. So you came to look upon all foreign policies as a nuisance and are filled with traps set by cunning diplomats for poor, innocent Uncle Sam."

Until lately, I think, you were right to have as little to do as possible with foreign politics and to content yourself with guarding the Monroe doctrine, the open door in China and selling to a hungry world the wheat, oats and cotton which you can raise in such abundance."

EMBEZZLEMENT
ACTION IS LOST
BY FLORIDA CITY

West Palm Beach, Fla., May 6.—(AP)—The fight of West Palm Beach to hold E. King Edwards, former city treasurer, to criminal court on charges of embezzling $1,005,000 of municipal bonds and nearly $6,000 of city cash ended in failure this afternoon, when F. M. Houghton, justice of the peace, dismissed the charges at the close of a preliminary hearing.

Mr. Edwards resigned as city treasurer on April 23, after he had been suspended by City Manager A. E. Parker, who refused to make public his reason for the suspension.

The charges against the defendant grew out of his refusal to turn over to the city certain bonds and cash until the completion of an audit of his accounts as city treasurer. Mr. Edwards was arrested Saturday night on a warrant sworn out before the justice of the peace after futile efforts had been made by the city to have the county solicitor inform against him in criminal court. The county solicitor refused on grounds that the evidence produced by the city failed to substantiate embezzlement charges.

KENTUCKIANS NAMED TO ROAD CONVENTION

Frankfort, Ky., May 6.—(AP)—Governor W. J. Fields today appointed 25 Kentuckians and one Pennsylvanian as delegates to represent Kentucky at the United States Good Roads convention, to be held at Savannah, Ga., June 4-11 of this year.

Classic."My Mother"

Who fed me from her gentle breast
And hushed me in her arms to rest,
And on my cheek sweet kisses pressed?
My Mother.

When sleep forsook my open eye,
Who was it sung sweet lullaby
And rocked me that I should not cry?
My Mother.

Who sat and watched me infant head
When sleeping in my cradle bed,
And tears of sweet affection shed?
My Mother.

When pain and sickness made me cry,
Who gazed upon my heavy eye
And wept for fear that I should die?
My Mother.

Who ran to help me when I fell
And would some pretty story tell,
Or kiss the part to make it well?
My Mother.

Who taught my infant lips to pray,
To love God's holy word and day,
And walk in wisdom's pleasant way?
My Mother.

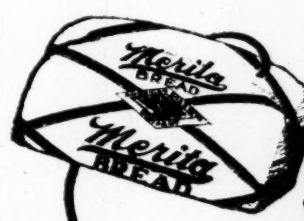

And can I ever cease to be
Affectionate and kind to thee
Who wast so very kind to me—
My Mother.

Oh no, the thought I cannot bear:
And if God please my life to spare
I hope I shall reward thy care,
My Mother.

When thou art feeble, old and gray,
My healthy arm shall be thy stay,
And I will soothe thy pains away,
My Mother.

And when I see thee hang thy head,
I'll be my turn to watch thy bed,
And tears of sweet affection shed—
My Mother.

ACCEPT THE PROPOSAL!

Mayor Ragsdale is to be commended for his action in calling together the heads of councilmanic committees to discuss and decide upon further steps in stopping all pending litigation and in settlement of claims of litigants so that the administration of the $8,000,000 bond issue can progress without further delays.

The meeting will be held in the mayor's office at 11 o'clock this morning, and if the committee chairman favor a special session of council to ratify the bond commission's proposal to pay $50,000 in settlement of these claims it is understood the mayor will so proceed at once.

There is a tremendous sentiment in Atlanta among all groups of citizens for the ratification of the bond commission's acceptance of the offer made.

It would make it possible to begin this great construction program this summer when labor is plentiful and material cheaper than it will probably be a few months hence.

Atlanta is building rapidly. Several great construction projects are under way, as usual, but nothing could possibly aid all the people in an economic way so much as to begin at once the building of the viaducts, schools and other improvements included in the bond schedule.

It would strengthen business, absorb unemployment, fill up many vacant houses or apartments, and generally stimulate all material activities, and in a way to count for the most.

GEORGIA RESORTS.

The May issue of the City Builder, the splendid magazine of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, is particularly attractive, and will be of especial interest to the thousands of citizens who will shortly be visiting one or more of Georgia's many summer resorts.

And the average citizen perhaps does not realize the tremendous progress this state is making in the building of playgrounds, recreation centers, resort hotels, etc.

Millions of dollars are being spent by outside capitalists on St. Simons Island, at Blue Springs, near Albany, and at Warm Springs.

The mountains of Georgia are always inviting, and many good hotels have gone up in the past year or two at many mountain towns.

There is no reason to leave Georgia in seek of rest, recreation or health.

The surf beaches of the Georgia coast are as inviting, the mountains as beautiful and restful, as those of the coasts or the high altitudes of any state in the union.

We ought to patronize home resorts. It not only keeps Georgia money in Georgia, but there are no better or more inviting to be found elsewhere.

DECLINE IN PRICE LEVELS.

According to the April issue of the Conference Board Bulletin, which is published by the National Industrial Conference Board, of New York, the purchasing value of the dollar in terms of the cost of living in March, 1927 was 60.9 cents, which is quite close to the average for the year of low prices, 1921.

The decline in the price levels of commodities during the past year and a half is a phenomenon that is the subject of much interest and speculation on the part of business men and economists. This decline has coincided with a period of remarkable prosperity among the industries generally. Regarding the underlying factors of the situation, which contradicts the rule assumed to be universal that a falling price level and prosperity are incompatible.

able, there is as yet no agreement. The novel situation has not been adequately analyzed.

One thing is quite obvious in this connection. Farm commodity prices have not been conducive to farm prosperity. And while the costs of living of wage earners have dropped a total of 2.6 per cent since March 1926, due to falling retail prices of foods, the prices generally received by producers have, as arranged in the table, shown a greater decline.

RIGHT POLICY AS TO CHINA.

This government is to be commended for turning a deaf ear to any and all of the hot-headed actions proposed by its diplomats in China.

The fact is the liberals are winning over the radicals because of the conservative, helpful and cooperative attitude of this and of other nations, whereas if a policy of force—especially of allied force—had been decided upon a bad feeling would have resulted, and bloodshed and bitterness would have followed.

Nationalism in China is a widespread patriotic obligation, felt keenly by most of the Chinese people.

That country has suffered from foreign exploitation and persecution, and for a quarter of a century nationalism has been an issue of constant agitation. Today it is sweeping over all of that great empire.

Unfortunately bolshevism became injected in the nationalist ranks, but without the invitation of the leaders. It is being eliminated as rapidly and as rigidly as possible.

The Chinese people on the whole are among the most conservative people in the world. We need to cooperate with them and help them, rather than embarrass and obstruct them for excesses committed by a small, Russian-influenced group of feds.

His NINETIETH BIRTHDAY.

Dr. E. L. Connolly, one of the best loved of the thinning group of Atlanta pioneers, was 90 years old Friday—and although he had been seriously ill recently he enjoyed the day with his usual happy smiles and cheery words for all the members of his family and the multitude of friends who called.

He has always remained young, always active, always happy, always doing good service, and inspiring others by his own fitting, worthy life.

The Constitution joins his countless friends in Atlanta, and everywhere, in wishing this good and useful citizen, who has seen the city grow from its cradle, and who has had a marked and public-spirited part in that growth, many more years of usefulness, of continued love for his fellow man which is so widely and generously reciprocated. No citizen of Atlanta is more deeply loved by all the people.

DR. TRUETT HONORED.

The hosts of Georgia friends of Dr. George W. Truett, who is pastor of the First Baptist church, of Dallas, will rejoice that he has been honored with the residency of the Southern Baptist convention.

The nomination came from the floor of the convention, and his election was unanimous by a rising vote—a veritable demonstration of personal enthusiasm for one of the south's most eloquent, distinguished and widely loved ministers.

Dr. Truett is a native Georgian—a product of the mountains. He was born in the beautiful Hiwassee valley, and in his extensive travels he never fails to speak with pride of his native section.

It is worthy of comment that he has been offered from time to time many of the highest salaries of the larger cities of the east, but would never consent to leave the great church in Texas which he built.

Just the moment a $5,000 a week movie actress gets into trouble the papers report her destitute. In the latest Hollywood scandal Miss Mackaye said her $300 bank account was exhausted. She will learn hereafter to Mackaye while the sun shines.

French historians are exercised in a heated argument over the question of which hand Napoleon, in his well-known pose, showed in his vest. Possibly this gesture was governed by whether he ate cucumbers for breakfast or lobster salad for dinner.

The faces of three convicts have been "fitted" at San Quentin prison. The men will go forth into the world when their sentences are ended so that the rogues' gallery will not recognize them.

It is at least considerate of the infants that the judge in the Snyder trial has ruled that babies in bug-bats are not admitted to the courtroom.

"It takes a nation of strong men to make prohibition possible," shouts a reformer. Yes, indeed; they need reinforcement.

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

New York, May 6.—Advertising writers whose bosses hawk their wares in the quality group magazines and the nifty morning and evening journals of the metropolis—papers read by the "better element"—never use a dollar mark in their copy. If they're ballyhoosing $50 sweaters for $25 they wouldn't think of writing "fifty cents." They just remark, casually, "twenty-five" and let it go at that. A dollar mark in a "swell" New York department store ad isn't regarded as refined, or an fail, as they say over in the gas house district.

Prices in New York today are sealed, not to the pocketbook, but to the prejudices of the customers.

In certain circles, where money means that you have more than conscience, it is considered immoral by virtuous virgins and their proud mammas to ladle out anything less than 25 fishskins for a new trick chapeau.

Traffic regulations in New York are sissies on the assumption that walking is a crime. A pedestrian in the metropolis is looked upon as an interloper, a nuisance and a two-legged tobacco.

If each succeeding spring sees the male manifestation in May-time lids becoming more of a flossie, then the self-defense, will have to start chewing tobacco.

I never go into a restaurant that some dame doesn't sit down at the table opposite me, open the little patent-leather gas meter that dangles a silver chain from her elbow, I feel out her first-aid-to-the-lady kit and proceed to remove portions of Broadway and other atmospheric phenomena adhering to her sin-kissed cheeks.

Whenever this occurs I abandon my cup of Mexican Mocha and slip unostentatiously into the busy thoroughfare.

I said to the waitress: "Where's the coffee?"

"The coffee? I ordered it," she asked.

"You didn't order no coffee," I said.

"Well, if you'd ordered it, why wouldn't I have brought it?"

"You might not have heard me order it."

"I heard you not order it."

"If you had I'd brought it."

"Well, will you bring me a cup now?"

"Sure I will,"

The Way I Feel About It

In Our Town.

Miss Effie Lutz, who is attending an evening school, writes home that she is not getting along very well as it was not till last semester that she could smoke a cigarette without choking.

Where Taxpayer's Money Goes.

Giving a chicken dinner to a condemned murderer just before he is executed is an economic waste.

When autograph albums vie with photograph albums for the place of honor on the "parlor" table?

It is hard to say at this stage whether prohibition is the foothill of politics or politics is the foothill of prohibition.

Sometimes It's the Worst.

A Texas minister who preached on "Honesty Is the Best Policy" was left with the impression that he was criticizing them; showing that sometimes it isn't.

Old Friends on Vacation.

Opposed to Fritze Expressions it was resolved to give these old friends a deserved rest: "So much has been said on the subject of Fritze Expressions that I am tired of it."

"I am in the hands of my friends," "It becomes me," "It is not the cost, it's the upkeep," "More to be hated than censured," "There ought to be a law on it," "Prohibition is a failure," "Prohibition is a success."

"I believe in the enforcement of the law, but not in the enforcement of the worst storm he ever was in," "Saloons are running wide open there, just as in the old days," "I am no more of a Fritze than you are," "I have gone 200 miles," "Indefinite leave of absence was granted to these," "Sweetie," "boy friend," "siskie," "service," "propaganda," "spud dicker," "Fritze," "spud dicker," "super-car," "super-pictures," "super" anything.

A better guess is that China will make a new treaty with Great Britain.

Time and Tide

BY JOHN HUBERT GRUESSEL

TORTURING DUMB BRUTES.

Sometimes in the movies you are shocked to see a horse driven mercilessly off a cliff in a western "thriller." Bad as that is, American cruelty to animals is more cruel than anything you could see in Europe.

Over there, horses are beaten within an inch of their lives, simply because the dumb brute is unable in an instant to pull out of a mud hole a heavily laden cart. To make matters worse, the carter himself is sitting on the load, expecting the frightened horse to pull the loaded wagon out of the mud hole. The horse is cursing wildly and cutting right and left. The crowd gapes, enjoying the brutal exhibition.

In Italy especially, butcher boys and others of that class take special delight in speeding up as though on the race track; fairly running their shivering horses and grinning like an idiot to pull out of a mud hole a heavily laden cart. To make matters worse, the carter himself is sitting on the load, expecting the frightened horse to pull the loaded wagon out of the mud hole. The horse is cursing wildly and cutting right and left. The crowd gapes, enjoying the brutal exhibition.

It might not do you any harm; in fact, it may do you a great deal of good. I am a young man attending college and would very much like to see a movie of a man who would make me more popular. Would it do me any harm to read a course enabling me to read the mind of the man I am courting? I am a young man attending college and would very much like to see a movie of a man who would make me more popular. Would it do me any harm to read a course enabling me to read the mind of the man I am courting?

Of course, the development of one's personality is a vital matter. But at least two-thirds of it is the result of inheritance and early training, the remaining one-third being acquired through education and experience. The original self—its fitness or its lack, its courage or its cowardice, its sparkle or its dullness, its tendency to optimism or pessimism—is born in us. Although its specific tendencies may be modified or corrected by reading good literature, much more can be accomplished by the right social fellowship. Self-development is greatly aided by mental and moral training with informing and inspiring people.

But the real sources of personality are within you. It arises from your own reflecting and feeling; or as a Christian phrased it: "As a man thinketh

LOOKING AND LISTENING

BY SAM W. SMALL.

Democratic Leaders Trying To Beat Back To The Old Party Highway.

The first venture of the democratic party in making a national platform was in its convention of 1840. That was a funny political party. President Van Buren was re-nominated by the democrats without opposition and the convention made no nomination of a candidate for vice president.

The Whigs nominated General "Tippecanoe" Harrison for president and John Tyler, a former democrat, for vice president.

The ticket got only 7,059 votes scattered through twelve eastern and western states.

What the Democrats Declared.

That first democratic platform was meant to publish to the country the political theories that democrats believed to be fundamental and essential to a republican plan of government through federal agencies.

Without any preamble or argument, it said:

"Resolved, That the federal government is one of limited powers, derived from the people, and that the rights of the people shall be strictly construed; by all the departments and agents of the government, and that no power shall be exercised to exercise doubtful constitutional powers."

That ought to be sound and binding democratic doctrine today, when all departments and agents of the government are endeavoring to exercise powers not to be found in the constitution.

Again, it said:

"Resolved, That the constitution does not confer upon the general government the power to commence and carry on a general system of internal improvement."

But that is no longer a democratic principle. Democrats in congress are as ravenous for federal aid to internal improvement as the members of the party who insist upon running the country on a free market.

Some of them still believe that the anti-Catholic issue will be unavoidable and defensible if the Smith faction of the party insists upon running the country on a free market.

Others fear that the prohibition issue cannot be avoided and that it might be so decisive as to ruin the party's chances of national victory.

Such able and safely democratic men as Senator Glass and Senator Walsh are of opinion that the religious issue should be thrown into the discard as was done by the party in 1856; that prohibition should be ignored as a national issue.

Resolved, That justice and sound policy forbid the federal government to foster one branch of industry to the detriment of another, or to cherish the interests of one part of the country at the expense of another part of our common country; that every citizen and every citizen of the country has a right to demand and insist upon an equality of rights and privileges.

That is a declaration that would meet the sectional and agricultural grievances of the north and west, caused by the gross inequities of the republic.

Not Romantic But Successful

BY JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

There was no romance about Eloise McBride when she married Barnum. He had a job and she could cook.

Mac got $18 a week and experience in looking after a household. He took in plain sewing to keep the family finances from attracting the attention of his boss.

Some women in Eloise's place would have permitted themselves to become a household drudge; but she was not so glibly deceived.

Realizing that Barnum was not going to supply the incentive for her to go on living, she set about to draw the blueprint of an incentive of her own.

When she had finished the scrubbing, sweeping, dusting, boiling Barnum's bacon and washing and ironing his linens, she'd sit down to her work with a pair of needle and thread and sew with a pair of needle and thread.

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

The pointer for today is: A tenace suit is not usually the one to lead; but no bridge rule is invariable. Yesterday a hand was given in which the cards of Dummy and Declarer were named, together with the lead to the first trick; and the reader was asked to put himself in Declarer's place and scheme the play of the first trick and the remainder of the hand. The location of the entire fifty-two cards, with both finesses losing, is now shown, and the contract is No Trump.

On the first trick West leads the seven of spades and East leads the ace of hearts. Declarer can see that he is sure of two Spade tricks, two Heart tricks, two Diamond tricks and one Club trick, two trumps short which stand an even chance of making an extra trick. The chance against the success of both these finesses is, however, three to one; and due to its length, the Club suit is the better to try because game probably can be made with the aid of that length, even if both finesses fail.

Declarer should therefore win either the first or second Spade trick with the Ace in the Dummy (keeping his King of Spades to block the third round of that suit), and should then lead a small Club Dummy. One Club trick must be lost, and the first Club lead can be made just as advantageously from one hand as the other. With the first Club lead won by the adversaries, they will continue Spades and clear their suit when South plays the King on the third round. Declarer should then (trick 5) lead a Club from Good Hand and finesse. The finesse would lose, but East would not have another Spade to lead and Declarer would therefore secure a total of two Spades, two Hearts, two Diamonds and three Clubs, winning the game in spite of the fact that both of his finesses were losers.

HOODS WILL AID FLOOD CONTROL

Peoria, Ill., May 6.—(AP)—Assured by Secretary Herbert Hoover that he will cooperate in any flood control activities, members of the flood control association, meeting here today, urged immediate federal action to aid flood refugees and prevent repetition of the recent conditions.

The meeting was under way but a short time before Congressman W. E. Hall announced Secretary Hoover had advised, "I am in the Mississippi valley with you in any of the things I know you want to do."

This statement came during a discussion of the action that federal government should be requested to take. S. S. Tanner, of Minier, Ill., had but a moment before declared a billion dollars for relief of people living in the Mississippi valley should be made available.

"We have a total of twelve millions to Europe," Tanner declared. "Now we need a billion at home. An emergency is upon us, and now we ask that congress begin a comprehensive plan that will give us a land that is safe to live on."

Residents of lower Illinois told of the dangers facing them in the vicinity of Cairo. One delegate declared that the present flood situation had awakened the country to true conditions along the larger rivers, and asserted it is generally realized the problem is national.

Secretary Hoover urged the association to go deeply into the problem which confronts it, and assured members he would keep constantly in communication with them.

"I am going to the lower river for the next week," his message said, "but I will keep in touch with you from time to time."

TESTIMONY ENDS IN SLAYING TRIAL

until Monday to allow attorneys for the two defendants and the state time to work through the mass of testimony before delivering their addresses to the jury.

But before Judd Gray left the stand he had bound the blonde woman, Ruth Snyder, to him with accusations of a common guilt as tightly as ever he swore she had bound him to her with white powder and a love letter.

"I am going to the lower river for the next week," his message said, "but I will keep in touch with you from time to time."

He had told his story and had stuck to it to the best of his ability. Throughout the closing hours of his cross-examination, he sat in his place, part of his politeness gone—mystifying under the attacks of Ruth Snyder's lawyers. Then he faced the court, and the attorney for the state, there was no kindness in this interrogator's voice, although Judd Gray might have expected kindness, for he had willingly admitted himself and the blonde woman to the state ever could have deemed them without his aid.

Dana Wallace, counsel for Mrs. Snyder, sought desperately to establish a motive on Gray's part for the slaying of his client's husband, but he met with little success.

"The woman," he said, "was over me and I was her willing slave." Wallace would only admit that he hoped to buy additional small lots of shares through his savings.

It was in December last that he discussed insurance for the first time with Mrs. Snyder, he borrowed $800 from a Newark bank and purchased five shares of stock in the coronet case by which he was employed as a salesman.

Wallace sought to draw from the witness that he hoped, through Snyder's insurance money, to purchase a larger interest in the business. Gray would only admit that he hoped to buy additional small lots of shares through his savings.

"Then why did you do what you did that night to Albert Snyder?" snapped Wallace.

"That's what I'd like to know, Mr. Wallace," said Gray.

"His 'Evil Influence'." The lawyer tore away at the "evil influence" Gray swears the blonde woman cast over him by her "great power of magnetism."

"It was in May, 1925, you say Mrs. Snyder became a dominating power over you?"

"Yes, that is true." "You invited her to spend a couple of days with you in a hotel?"

"Yes, sir." "Yet you say you were trying to get away from the influence of her?"

"I invited her, sir." Wallace switched the line of questioning to delve into Gray's relationship with other women during his trips on the road. The spectators sat on their toes as the witness told of his trips on the road. The spectators sat on their toes as the witness told of his trips on the road.

Here, as last, they thought the mud would be stirred. From time to time bits of mud had crept in the trial, but the big splash had not taken place. It didn't take place today.

"From time to time you have known a girl by the name of Alice," asked Wallace.

"I've known many girls by that name," responded the witness.

"All Alice?"

"Yes, sir." The courtroom filled and leaned back to await the story of "Alice in Wonderland." Judd has established himself as a good story teller by his sashy tales and from his remark his audience judged there must be at least a dozen girls named Alice.

It developed, however, that this story was to be about one girl named Alice—Alice of Buffalo, better known as "Snooks."

"I knew three Alices in Buffalo," remarked the witness, apparently in a reminiscent mood.

"What were their occupations?" Gray then related—without mentioning her last name—how he had met Alice of Buffalo in the Lafayette hotel in the fall of 1918. He said he never had taken her to a room. He said he had known her and her family for years and that they knew he was married. He was reluctant to divulge his pet name for Alice, but Wallace finally got him to admit that he "mostly called her 'Snooks.'" Mrs. Snyder knew about "Snooks," he declared, the witness said. He declared he never had borrowed money from "Momsie" Snyder to pay a debt to Snooks.

"Were you ever in the Statler hotel, with Snooks?" he was asked.

"Yes, sir," he replied, showing a wee bit of anger for the first time.

"Were you ever on any over-night trips with her?"

No, sir.

Then he was allowed to make it many, have ascended to new heights in playing such a great Broadway hit, adding to their wide circles of friends and leaving impressions that will not pass out of the minds of those who were able to get seats. "Meet the Wife" is worth seeing once—and twice. It has a tremendous kick in every scene, brimming with humor and life interest that catches one instantly and holds on to the last curtain fall.

Loew's Grand.

"Rookies." One of the greatest comedy teams in the world, Karl Dane and George K. Arthur, will play leading roles in "Rookies," the big comedy hit of the year which will be the feature picture at Loew's Grand theater next week. This will be the first time "Rookies" has been presented in Atlanta and those who have witnessed previous performances will be in for a comedy gem from start to finish.

KONTZ AND RUSSELL IN BITTER BATTLE

"Rookies." Judge Kontz declared in defending the stand of Mr. Hartfield and others who have attacked the proposal as "being permeated with lurking dangers intended to life any expression from citizens who are to live under it."

"It is its own worst enemy. Read it, think it over, and you can never get your consent to sign away your rights to free government by the people. The present charter embodies the principles which our forefathers wrote in the federal constitution. It is democratic and it is democratic to the people. The new charter would set up a government which would permit the importation of gunmen from any city in the entire country and would wipe out the very principles which common people of the world have fought for during the centuries. It is a language fit to excoriate the proposal, it is so permeated with schemes intended to turn Atlanta over to a few men and see it to ruin and operate as a machine."

Charter "Not Good."

"Judge Hillier, 32-year-old Confederate veteran, is author of the present charter. He would take the field at this time to fight the proposed paper if it were not for his advanced age."

In fact, the new charter which they ask you to adopt, it is not a really good one. It is a mirage. Something to entice and tease you, but which will be the end of the city. The citizens of this city have ever had."

"The reason mayors leave the city government leading for a small council is that they have made a campaign promise, which were preposterous and against the best interest of the city, which council would not approve. He would take the field at this time to fight the proposed paper if it were not for his advanced age."

"Another provision of the proposed new instrument under which Atlanta would be operated in the event the charter is adopted is that the departments of law, finance, board of education cannot be abolished. But the departments of public works, public safety and public welfare can be at the discretion of the council."

Judge Kontz branded the proposed new council as a "concoction" and gave satirical as he claimed that the council would be a ceremonial mayor, would be a "mayorlette."

City Attorney James L. Mayson of the current fiscal year was reported, respectively, of the proposed new charter, debated the proposal Friday night at the Highland Avenue school.

INCREASE SHOWN IN CIGARETTE TAX COLLECTIONS

Washington, May 6.—(AP)—An increase of $16,755,008 in the cigarette tax collections of the first nine months of the current fiscal year was reported today. The collections amounted to $253,226,701.

A decrease of $14,856,089 in the tax collections on cigars, which averaged $18,391,068, also was reported by the internal revenue bureau. The rate of taxation on cigars was reduced by the revised act of 1926, which also repealed the special tax on manufacturers of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco.

A total decrease of $1,821,008 is shown in the tax collections on manufactures of tobacco and cigars as compared with the collection during the first nine months of the last fiscal year. The current fiscal year amounted to $23,909,187, this fiscal year.

The state which led in the collection of cigarette taxes was North Carolina, where they reached $117,450,000, compared with $109,650,189 for the preceding year.

Large collections also were shown in New York, Pennsylvania, Florida, New Jersey, Michigan, Ohio and Virginia.

"Confirming our conversation of this morning, I have the honor to inform you that I am authorized to say that the president of the United States intends to accept the request of General Stimson for the resignation of President Diaz during the remainder of his term as regarded as necessary for the proper and successful conduct of such elections and that the forces of the United States will be authorized to accept the custody of the arms of the government, and to disarm forcibly those who will not do so."

"Very respectfully, Henry L. Stimson."

The statement continues with a protest against the imposition of a cessation of hostilities "at this moment when our army is victorious and at the verge of the capital door," and concluding with:

"We declare that the Sacaes government (set up by former Vice President Juan R. Sacaes) cannot accept the conditions imposed by General Stimson as they involve the honor and dignity of our republic and we decline in advance all responsibility for subsequent events."

"The delegates of President Sacaes have delivered a protest to General Stimson."

"The state department announced that the resignation of General Stimson, and came after a white house warning that statements made by him in regard to the development of either Nicaraguan faction should not be accepted 'too literally.'"

The Stimson report was emphatic in expressing his judgment that the policy of any election held under other circumstances than American supervision was the main factor in preventing a peaceful adjustment of Nicaraguan. Doubt as to the guarantees for a fair election under the Diaz government and inability of the liberals to reconcile themselves to Diaz's continuance in office were the two main difficulties he had encountered, Mr. Stimson said.

WE WILL NOT ARGUE ABOUT THIS

An old saying is to the effect that you cannot eat your cake and have it; but what about the dyspeptic? Guess it is wise to leave that matter with those who are bothered with indigestion, while we consider matters of importance for those who eat their three meals per day with all their attendant pleasure and benefit.

Catering to the appetites of a family and providing the food is quite a task, yet it is done most successfully by thousands of women.

Those who live in Atlanta or its suburbs are fortunate in being able to buy in the best markets, groceries and produce houses in the country.

They are also fortunate in being able to find advertised in The Constitution what is on the market and the prices for the day's business.

If you would do your over-Sunday buying easily and economically read the food advertisements in The Constitution this morning.

Flood Benefit Performance Thrills Midnight Audience

Whether it was applauding the exceptional clever acting of the performers or their unstinted generosity in donating their services for the elaborate benefit show midnight Friday at Keith's Georgia, the large house gave ample proof of its appreciation for a top-notch show and a worthy cause.

With Gus Forbes, of the Forsyth players, acting as master of ceremonies for the occasion and virtually all the theatrical talent in Atlanta assembled in grand array to help raise funds for reducing suffering among flood-harried victims of Mississippi, Atlantans nobly responded to the call.

Because every actor, stage hand, musician and operator, and the various theater managers gave their services willingly and efficiently without remuneration except the feeling of doing a good deed in a big way, the proceeds will be turned over to the Red Cross for alleviating suffering in the flood areas and among refugees.

Elaborate Show.

But aside from the charitable features evoked by both the audience and the performers, the performance was a spectacle in the annals of Atlanta's amusement life. Neatly packed into a little more than two hours of engrossing entertainment, the program was a masterpiece of an overture arrangement by the Metropolitan theater orchestra, directed by Enrico Leide; presented afternoon for Mrs. Henry Cromer, who died at her home near Pine Level Wednesday after a short illness. Mrs. Cromer is survived by her husband and eight small children.

The service was conducted by Rev. Will Emerson.

text of a letter received by General Moncada from Mr. Stimson, stating that "the forces of the United States will be authorized to accept the custody of the arms of the government, and to disarm forcibly those who will not do so."

Liberal Statement.

The statement, which was signed by Rodolfo Esquivel, Leonardo Arguello and Gordero Reyes, was as follows:

"In the conference held the day before yesterday at Tipitapa, General Henry L. Stimson, personal representative of President Coolidge, accompanied by the American minister at Managua (Charles C. Eberhardt) and the American consul at Leon (John H. Stimson), personally represented that any peaceful arrangement of the present conflict must be based on the continuation of Adolfo Diaz as constitutional president of Nicaragua, as this position was considered a question of honor and prestige by President Coolidge."

"We threatened that if this condition was not accepted, the marine forces under Admiral Lattimer would proceed forcibly to disarm the liberal troops."

"Confirming our conversation of this morning, I have the honor to inform you that I am authorized to say that the president of the United States intends to accept the request of General Stimson for the resignation of President Diaz during the remainder of his term as regarded as necessary for the proper and successful conduct of such elections and that the forces of the United States will be authorized to accept the custody of the arms of the government, and to disarm forcibly those who will not do so."

"Very respectfully, Henry L. Stimson."

The statement continues with a protest against the imposition of a cessation of hostilities "at this moment when our army is victorious and at the verge of the capital door," and concluding with:

"We declare that the Sacaes government (set up by former Vice President Juan R. Sacaes) cannot accept the conditions imposed by General Stimson as they involve the honor and dignity of our republic and we decline in advance all responsibility for subsequent events."

"The delegates of President Sacaes have delivered a protest to General Stimson."

The state department announced that the resignation of General Stimson, and came after a white house warning that statements made by him in regard to the development of either Nicaraguan faction should not be accepted "too literally."

The Stimson report was emphatic in expressing his judgment that the policy of any election held under other circumstances than American supervision was the main factor in preventing a peaceful adjustment of Nicaraguan. Doubt as to the guarantees for a fair election under the Diaz government and inability of the liberals to reconcile themselves to Diaz's continuance in office were the two main difficulties he had encountered, Mr. Stimson said.

Padukoff Will Give Miss Turpie Battles Zbyszko Tough Battle Mrs. Reymond for Title

Pole Will Have Hands Full When He Meets Russian Tuesday—Show Expected to Top Any Put on Here.

Present Champion Beats Mrs. Gaut, 3-2, and Baton Rouge Star Defeats Jackson Woman, One Up.

BY MRS. CLARENCE BRADLEY.

Laurel, Miss., May 6.—Miss Marion Turpie, the young woman's southern golf champion from New Orleans, La., continued her steady march through a field of the best women golfers in the south when Friday she defeated the veteran player, Mrs. David Gaut, of Memphis, Tenn., in a close match, 3 and 2.

Miss Turpie equalled the course record hung up by Mrs. Gaut Thursday, when she turned in a card of 83 for the 18 holes. Mrs. Gaut had an 86. Miss Turpie had only 34 putts for the round with four putts in the third hole. Mrs. Gaut taking 35 putts. The champion held on to the 20-foot putt to win the fifth hole with a birdie four and an 18-foot putt for a par four and half on the seventh. A 29-foot putt, which she missed, would have won the match on the eighth hole. Miss Turpie turned two up. Her card going out was 42. Mrs. Gaut's card for the out was 45.

Neither player was out of the fairway except on the thirteenth hole, when Miss Turpie hooked her long drive in the pine to the right, but made a nice recovery and was down in a five for a par. Miss Turpie ended the match on the sixteenth hole with a birdie, when she held out another 25-foot putt. The 20-foot putt star had eight holes in par and four birdies for the 18 holes.

Mrs. John Reymond, of Baton Rouge, won from Mrs. John A. Riley, a strong, former southern champion, of Jackson, Miss., 4 and 3. Mrs. Armstrong was one down at the turn, but carried Mrs. Reymond to the fifteenth hole only to lose.

In the Laurel Country club fight, Mrs. T. Williams, of Atlanta, continued her steady march and won from Mrs. Reymond, 4 and 2. Mrs. Williams meets Mrs. E. C. Hollins in the finals and faces a hard match. Mrs. Hollins is one of the strongest golfers in the south and missed getting into the championship flight by only two strokes. However, Mrs. Williams should win and is shooting it consistently in the nineties.

The championship flight will get under way this morning. This should prove one of the most interesting matches that has been played in the southern championship.

Mrs. Marion Turpie, the Louisiana state champion, has won a first-class Miss Marion Turpie in three different events within the last year, but Miss Turpie is confident that Mrs. Reymond will not win this time.

Tech Cinder Crew Meets Bulldogs

Fresh Teams of Two Schools Also Clash on Grant Field Today.

Tech and Georgia track teams will vie for honors on the cinder path at Grant field this afternoon. Promptly at 2 o'clock the first event of the afternoon's program will be run off. Tech will more likely emerge from the meet with the highest number of points to its credit.

Papa Hood and Big Nixon, both of Tech, have the edge over their opponents, according to past performances for this season work. Both these men are good for points if they are right. Stacy Stewart, Coach Barron's last week, stepped out into the front last weekend in a dual encounter, with the Commodores at Nashville when he heaved the javelin through the air for a distance of 176 feet.

This was the first time that he had participated in this event and it looks like he is going to be a sure point winner. He is also a pole vaulter of merit.

Hamm Formidable.

Ed Hamm, Tech's prodigy in the best of the United States at the present time, will be present to lend his aid to the cinder stars of Tech in an effort to hand the Bulldogs their defeat. Hamm is another man who is counted on heavily for a first place in the 440-yard dash. Hamm is at present one of the conference record holders for this event. The hurdle races will be rather close. Boyd and Brewer are both good hurdlers and the Georgia leader will have to stop out in order to finish ahead of these two boys.

Coach Barron has been busy the past few days getting his charges in the best of shape for the Bulldogs' encounter. Tech's cinder artists boast of a victory over the strong Auburn Tiger team, which they defeated early in the season by a score of 20-0.

Both men have stepped the century in 10 seconds flat several times this season. The race between these two boys will be a close one. The Bulldogs will be the hardest fought of the dual encounter.

Coach Stiegman has a strong team this year, which so far has made a good showing by dropping only one dual encounter. McCrary, one of the fastest men, will be a hard man for school to defeat in the 200-yard dash. Both men have stepped the century in 10 seconds flat several times this season. Tech Beats Georgia 12 At Lacrosse

Jackets Double Score on Red and Black To Win, 8 to 4.

BY HOWARD EATON.

Tech's lacrosse team defeated the Bulldogs in a fast game, 8-4. Tech took the lead early in the fray and led all the way through the one-hour struggle.

In exactly three minutes after the start of the game, Tech scored on a well-executed play from the 18 yard line. Neither team scored again until after 10 minutes of hectic battling, when Captain Drew of the Bulldogs, who succeeded in tying things up by slipping a fast one by whom, for a counter. This tie was short lived, however, for the Tech squad scored on a well-executed play from the 18 yard line.

Mobile Takes Second Game From Crackers, 6 to 3

Francis and Rogers Touched for 11 Hits

Rally in Last of Game by Atlantans Fall Three Runs Short—Pierce Holds Niehoff to Eight Swats.

MOBILE, Ala., May 6.—The summer weather has affected the batting eyes of the Atlanta Crackers, who are playing in the City by the Gulf, very much, for they failed to hit again today when they had runners on the bases and the Mobile club won a 6-3 game from them. This marked the second straight defeat for the Georgians from the same cause. But for the errors of Howard Welch, third baseman of the Bears, the visitors would have suffered a shutout.

The local team joined the home run class today. Manager Milton Stock and Catcher Joe Palm turning in circuit drives. The game also introduced Outfielder Fred Lucas, from Columbus, Ohio, to the fans and the new member of the Bear family delivered in the pinch and showed a fast lot of hitting.

Ray Pierce did the pitching for the Bears and he left-handed the Crackers nicely. Pierce worked like a Trojan and his victory was well earned.

Ray Francis, who is one of the best left-handers in the association, was the choice of Manager Niehoff for the pitching, but the Bears developed a sudden liveness for his stuff and hit him safely seven times, including Stock's "Hannu" Mamie, who was inspired in the Crackers' big sixth inning for a pinch-hitter and Tom Rogers went to the ridge in the sixth. The Bears had no trouble in getting the left pitcher's stuff and scored twice off him.

It was off Rogers that Palm, former Georgia Tech boy, scored his home run.

The pipped-up Bears scored early in the contest. Manager Milton Stock after two men were out on the first inning, slammed a home run to far left field, the debut circuit drive for his team at home and the longest drive for the park.

Atlanta had the bases full in the first inning with two down, due to singles by Zoeller and Cuto and a pass to third, but the Crackers took the opportunity by forcing Cuto at third.

The Bears went further away from the Crackers in the third when Pierce was issued a base on balls to start the inning. Denny Williams went him to second with a single to right field and the Bears' sacrifice to right placed the Bear hurler on third, from where he scored when Stock drove a long fly to Haas in deep center.

Mobile practically won the game in the fifth with some mangled hitting off Francis. Denny Williams, who is back at his old slugging stride, pried the inning open with a drive to right field for a base. Denny advanced on Hoos's sacrifice and Manager Stock scored him with a single to left center, the third run that he was responsible for during the game.

Stock jumped out at second when Welch grounded to Cuto.

Welch stole second and went to third when he took Cuto's throw. Fred Lucas went his way to the left of local fandom by driving out a pinch single to left to score Welch.

Pierce, after the Crackers' first inning, hung in on the Niehoff until the sixth when they scored two runs with two down, due to Welch's unfortunate boot. F. Welch led the inning with a triple, off Francis, run down by Palm when Gilbert grounded to Welch. Niehoff went in the place of Schwab and singled to left.

Brook grounded out at second when Cuto could not field the ball and the bases were full. Frank Kohlhecker, the extra catcher with the Crackers, took the place of Francis and slammed a single to left, scoring Gilbert and Niehoff. Pierce got in more trouble when he walked, Frankie Zoeller, but he stopped the big rush when Cuto forced the Crackers' left guardner, Stock to Schreiber.

Joe Palm, who played a dazzling game behind the bat yesterday, scored his team's fifth run with a home run drive to left field in the sixth inning.

Mobile played the game safe by scoring again in the seventh when Stock walked, was sacrificed to second and Lucas again essayed the role of a pinch hitter with a single to center field. The Bears donated the visitors a run in the final when they permitted Cuto to go around to third after he walked, scoring when Howard Welch muffed up Frank Welch's grounder.

Manager Stock was a leading factor in his team's winning, driving in three runs and rousing out a home run and a single, while his second string catcher, Joe Palm, with a big boost being handed him in every inning by the fans, showed his worth. Joe drove out a single, missing a double previous to this blow by a close margin and then hitting for the four bases.

The Crackers' eight blows were all widely scattered, not a player in the lineup gathering more than one hit, the extra hit of the visitors, a triple, going to Frank Welch, their right out-post.

TECH DEFEATS STATERS BY 8 TO 7—GEORGIA LOSES

Outen Hits 2 Homers; Conn Hurls for Jackets

Clay Boys Grab Early Lead Over N. C. Nine—Tech Enjoys Good Day at Bat at Expense of Shelton.

BY TOM THOMPSON.
ZZY COMB, another of Georgia Tech's hurlers, demonstrated Friday that the poling of two consecutive homers by the same man bothers him not in the least. A part of his demonstration almost cost Tech a ball game, but it was retrieved in the sixth with triples, so North Carolina State lost, 8-7.

Mr. Conn demonstrated something, and giving him the benefit of any doubt would make it a pretty good demonstration of control.

It was in the first inning that a lad named Outen, a stalwart son of one of the states made famous by a couple of governors, caught one of the offerings of Mr. Conn on the hand, pounded it dizzily toward Parham and with the aid of an elusive hop was safe on the scratch hit.

This Outen lad was up again in the third. Not a living decided whether he liked "on" best inside or out. Mr. Conn proceeded to conduct an experiment. The second example was fouled over the scoreboard. The fourth example is probably still going.

When last seen the ball was over the fence a mile high and traveling well. Austin and Matheson had reached the bases, and so Mr. Outen's inconsiderate throwing of Mr. Conn's experiment scored three runs.

When Mr. Outen came to bat in the fourth, Mr. Conn was still of an impulsive mind. He really wanted to know what Mr. Outen liked best. So he laid one over the fence. Mr. Outen socked it down the fence, but it was foul. Conn shot another in the socket. Outen whacked away. It was another homer and this time Matheson was decorating a base.

Outen Then Sat Down.
This poling would have made most any pitcher's base passes to the whole Outen family. Not so Mr. Conn. He's like the progressive publishers, he can't believe in a pass. At bat he finished his experiment and so the next two times Outen came to bat he couldn't get anything but an inside ball, and it was his weakness. His last two batting attempts provided two weak cracks down the first-sack line. Mr. Outen was weak in the handle.

Which doesn't at all alter the fact that Coach Kid Clay is praying that if the Staters have any more potent Rulins around, the experimental business won't be so costly to his pitchers.

Tech opened the scoring. Doubles by Yeoman, Conn and McCash coupled with a pass. The Staters scored. Yeoman, Arnall and Conn. After Outen had muffed Conn with his homer in the third, Hovis singled and scored off the Staters' lead.

Crowley doubled in the third and scored when Angley laid one down the third-base line. Angley went to second on the throw to the plate, and in this inning Tech made the Staters look foolish by slick and slippery teamwork. Angley stole third and when Hovis threw wild to Angley he came home. Wadley singled, and before the Carolinians were awake to his being on base, he had stolen second and was threatening to take third. Arnall popped out at this juncture, however, to choke off the inning.

Hits for Circuit.
Being a run behind was not agreeable to Outen, so he homered again in the fourth for two more runs and in the fifth for three more runs and the Staters scored again in the sixth.

The Jackets put on the famous rally in the sixth's latter portion and scored three. Matheson was guilty of a three-base error when he let Wadley's ground skinner slip between his props. Arnall scored Wadley from third with a single and scored himself when McCash snuck a triple into center. Regan, the State center gardener, badly misjudged McCash's long, high ball, and it went over his head by feet, though he was tearing down at full speed with his back to the plate.

Moreland then laid another in the same territory for three sacks, and Hovis scored. Though two and a half more innings were played, the game was over right there.

The two teams will sail into each other's camp at Spiller's field at 3 o'clock.

Howard, The Inventor.

Among the coaches of Atlanta's junior high schools is a man who has the blooming genius of an inventor. He not only invents football, baseball and basketball teams that win their share of the games among the youngsters, but he has now invented a golf game of a novel type.

If you should happen to go past Bass Junior High school, where "Triple H" Holt is coach, you might see Will Gunn, brother of the famous Watts, and a mighty golfer himself, batting at an overgrown golf ball with a mishapen golf club. If you do so do not think that Will is demented on the subject of the ancient game.

If you look closely you will see that he is armed with a hockey stick and is playing golf with an indoor baseball. There will be nine holes on the course and the game is played under the same rules as the regulation game but the accoutrements are slightly oversize.

The shiny sticks makes a great club for the game, but the indoor baseball acts very untruthfully on the "green" and it is with difficulty that the youngsters are able to negotiate a 100-yard hole in 30 strokes—which is as well as the average in the newspaper tournament.

Mentor Holt deserves much credit for his invention which appeases the appetites of the lads who prefer golf to the other sports. Now they can have their little game of marble massau without playing hockey to reach the nearest golf course.

Judging from the program of events planned for the big day at Fort McPherson on May 15, there will be more fun on tap than there used to be beer at a log raising.

There will be golf, tennis, music and most everything except a baby show. Perhaps even that may be contrived if Lieutenant Weckler and his aides receive a suggestion from some baby fan.

Big business, which has been blamed for the war, will clash with its hereditary enemy when the Sears-Roebuck team meets the soldiers of the Twenty-second infantry in a baseball game to open the festivities. This will be followed by a lesson in culinary art when the Crackers are warmed up while Doug Davis is flying overhead to see that the Crackers don't burn.

After that there will be tennis and then the bootleggers, or maybe it's freebooters, will pole a little polo with the Horse Guards of the governor, which will be followed by an orderly retreat led by Fat Elrod and Tubby Walton, who will give an imitation of two locomotives trying to occupy the same space at the same time.

Considered from all angles, there promises to be much joy and no few casualties in the line of duty at the fort on Sunday week.

Tarheels Win Opener From Bulldogs, 4-1

N. C. U. Nine Bunches Six Hits for Four Runs While Bulldogs Held to Five Swats by Westmoreland.

BY MARCUS BRYANT.

Athens, Ga., May 6.—With Joe Westmoreland twirling good ball, North Carolina's Tarheels gained a 4-1 decision over the Georgia Bulldogs here this afternoon in the opener of a two-game series. "Lefty" Stewart will pitch for Georgia tomorrow.

Westmoreland held the Georgians to five scattered hits, not more than one safety coming in any one inning. "Shakey" Cain twirled a good game, giving up a total of six safeties with misuses adding to his downfall.

The visitors scored in the first when Burt was passed, took third on Mackey's hit and scored on H. F. Johnson's error. Another was added in the fifth, when Westmoreland valiantly stole second, took third on Keating's lead throw to the bag, and scored on a sacrifice fly by Burt. Not content with the count standing 2-1 in their favor, the Tarheels added a couple in the ninth. Sharpe lived on Shiver's error and Hatley walked. Havenor's fielder's choice resulted in Sharpe being caught at third. Hatley taking second. Westmoreland drove one down the third base line, allowing the two runners to come home.

Georgia's only marker came in the sixth. With two down Flowers walked and "Chick" Shiver sent him home with a triple into the right field stand.

The lineup of the Bulldogs was changed today. Keating receiving due to Johnson's injury in the Tech game and Shiver taking over the duties at short. Westmoreland going into left field and Arenowich taking his usual stand in the center garden.

Chick Shiver enjoyed a good day for the Bulldogs, slugging out two hits in three times at bat, sending the only run across the plate and handling six chances without an error. Two putouts were recorded for him and he figured in a double killing.

For the visitors, Hatley, with three hits in the like number of trips, shone, one going for three bases. Carolina also made a double play, while Flunator's catch of Jacobson's drive in the ninth was a brilliant fielding feature of the game.

Races Transferred.
Detroit, May 6.—(P)—The Gordon Bennett international balloon races, set for Detroit on July 4, have been transferred to Denver, Colo. Ralph H. Upton, of the contest committee, announced today. The date is September 10.

Bob Taylor Dies.

TUNNEY SENT INVITATION TO "DOLLAR DAY" AT FORT

Champion Expected to Attend Big Sport Carnival May 15

Officials in charge of the Disabled American Veterans' "Dollar day" to be held at Fort McPherson May 15 have wired Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, an invitation to attend the carnival in the capacity of honorary official and they have every reason to believe that he will accept. Gene is as yet a sight unseen to Atlanta fans as far as his appearances as champion are concerned, and no doubt if he is able to make the trip he will be greeted by thousands of sport fans. He has been very generous in making appearances of this sort and the vets believe that he will accept the invitation.

The other events are as yet mentioning. Especially so is the polo game which will take place at 4:15 o'clock immediately following the Cracker-Ft. Benning baseball game. The Governor's Horse Guard will meet the Freebooters, which have been so popular in the recent Fort McPherson matches. The Horse Guard recently gave Fort Benning the fight of their lives when they held them to an 8-7 score at the first last Sunday.

The Freebooters will have Capt. McChrystal and Major Tolson added to their lineup and this ought to give them almost an even break in the relative strength of the two outfits. The two lineups follow:

H. GUARDS. Pos. FBOOTERS.
Ray Love.....1.....Maj. Tolson
P. D. Christian.....2.....Capt. McChrystal
Joe Clark.....3.....Lt. Johnson
Lt. Moran.....4.....Lt. Lynch

The game should be fairly even and should afford interesting and excellent sport for all polo enthusiasts. The game will be followed by a dress parade by the cadets of Georgia Military College.

Newnan Wins G.I.A.A. Meet

Red Bethea Smashes Broad Jump Record

Tech High Places Second in Annual Track Meet Held at Newnan—Pat Barron Wins 440 Event.

BY BEN COTHMAN,
Staff Correspondent.

NEWNAN, Ga., May 6.—(Special.)—Newnan High school's cinder men worked and sweated lustily under a burning sun here this afternoon and piled up a total of 383 points to win the annual G. I. A. A. track and field meet. The Newnan lads kept the Tech High outfit submerged, which team scored 27 points to finish second and lost its first G. I. A. A. meet since the association was organized.

Despite the combined attack of a hundred or so preppers, the association records proved well nigh invulnerable, only one falling during the afternoon's activities. Red Bethea, well-built young man, who formed a one-man track team for Riverside Military academy, made a long leap of 22 feet to set a new record in the broad jump. This same Bethea, competing all by his lonesome, finished second in the high jump and fourth in the shot and discus to pile up 10 points and place Riverside in fifth place. He was topped for high point honors by a fleet-footed youngster named Newnan, who dashes for the Newnan High team. Newnan took first place in the 220 and 100 yard dashes, second in the 440, and was a member of the winning relay team, scoring a total of 14.14 points. When the meet was over, Mr. Newnan was the proud recipient of three medals, one for each first place.

Made Good Time. Better test with McLeary, a be-spectacled youth who runs the mile and half-mile for the Boys' High team of Atlanta. McLeary won both his events and showed good form. McLeary made good time in the mile and was winner by a good margin in both events.

Bill Sanford, of the Georgia Military college, gave an exhibition of high jumping that was pronounced as one of the best given by a prepster in some time by coaches of several colleges who attended the meet. Sanford won the high jump, beating out Red Bethea when the latter was unable to clear the bar at 5 feet 7.4 inches. Sanford has an unusually good spring and goes over the bar with apparently little effort.

The state record in the pole vault was in danger of being shattered by a little fellow named Wilson, of Clarksville A. & M. He was nearly forced out on two or three occasions while in the preliminaries, but hung on until no one else could go over with him at 10 feet 9 inches. Wilson tried for the record at 11 feet, but failed to go over.

The Newnan crew showed its strength in the dashes and weights. It won the relay, 100 and 220-yard dashes and the shot put and discus throw. Coach Wills has trained his team well.

"Those boys have been training every day since January and if ever a victory was earned, my boys earned one today," said the winning mentor. With one exception, his men are all sophomores and juniors, and will be back next year.

Barron Wins 440. Pat Barron, speed king of Monroe A. & M., stepped out with a time of 54.4 seconds to win the 440-yard dash, his best event. He was closely pushed all the way by Newnan, he of speedy legs on the local team. Both of these men showed good form and will be watching when they get to college.

The relay race, final event of the day, was the neatest and most spectacular of all. Tom Pickett, of Newnan, running No. 1, jumped into the lead on the first 220 and increased his lead to 25 yards in that time.

The other men increased their margins slightly in the following laps. On the last one it was Newnan vs. Barron. Pat started out with Newnan about 25 yards ahead. Running a beautiful race, he finished close behind Newnan to bring his team in second.

After the meet was over, Coach Herman J. Stegeman, of Georgia, arbiter of the G. I. A. A., presented the winners with a silver trophy, emblematic of the victory. The trophy was offered by Newnan High and is now in Newnan's permanent possession. Winners in each event and members of the winning relay team were awarded gold medals.

R. K. White, president of University school and also president of the G. I. A. A., expressed himself as being well pleased with the meet. "It was handled in fine style and the officials of Newnan High school and of the meet should be congratulated on the way in which it was handled," he said.

Coach Stegeman was head finish judge, Hal Barron, of Tech, and Al Doonan, assistant finish judges; Coach Alexander, of Tech, judge of shot put, discus, broad jump; Wilbur Hartsell, of Auburn, pole vault and high jump; and Harry Melire, of Georgia, chief starter.

Chicago Gangmen Told To Leave City at Once

Chicago, May 6.—(AP)—Three score and two known crooks, hoodlums, strong arm men and racketeers have been ordered to leave Chicago at once and stay away.

Chief of Detectives William O'Connor read the riot act to the 62 prisoners last night, telling them from their cells one by one and employing the argot the prisoners best understood.

"Take it from me," the chief said, "you fellows are in for an awful cleaning. We have made up our minds that you can't do business in Chicago—and that means you can't."

"Just so there is no misunderstanding, I'll tell you how we're going to proceed against you. We're going to throw you in jail every time we see

"NERVOUS WRECK," SAY PHYSICIANS OF ILL PRISONER

Greenville, S. C., May 6.—(AP)—Earl Carroll, the New York theatrical producer, was said today by Dr. C. O. Bates, one of his attending physicians, to be a "nervous wreck."

Dr. Bates said that Carroll, who has been a patient in a hospital here since he collapsed on a train April 12 while en route to the federal territory at Atlanta, would not be able to work for some time after being taken to the prison and probably not before the expiration of his year and a day sentence for perjury in connection with his "bartholomew" party.

John Pinkley, deputy U. S. marshal, who is here, has given no indication as to when Carroll will be taken to Atlanta.

AVONDALE TO OFFER OUTDOOR FILM SHOW

Another lure to the outdoors has been provided at Avondale Estates, where facilities for recreation already covering almost every field, has added arrangements for outdoor moving pictures.

A series of programs, planned to continue throughout the summer, will be launched Tuesday night in a spacious natural amphitheater, surrounded by trees that lies just off Dartmouth avenue in a glade adjoining the huge park with its swimming pool and playground.

The performances, complete with first-run motion pictures, comedies, news reels, and proper orchestral accompaniment, will be provided free to dwellers, property owners of the new Avondale city and to invited guests. For the opening of the new frescos there have been issued to an exclusive list of guests.

It is planned, according to J. A. Riach, sales director of Avondale Estates, to present new programs twice each week, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. For the highest class of motion pictures, not before displayed in the Atlanta region, will be shown and an effort will be made to provide in the musical accompaniment a fitting expression to the poetic charm of the setting.

The open air motion picture theater will take its place after Tuesday's opening program with the other recreational features available for Avondale dwellers, which include the nearby swimming pool and children's playground, the latter described as the most beautiful in the South.

Philadelphia, the tennis courts, golf course, lake for boating and fishing, riding stables and the Avondale Community club, whose clubhouse beside the wooded park at the head of Lake Avondale is nearly ready for occupancy.

LONGWORTH TELLS NEW KLAN STORY; COOLIDGE LAUGHS

Washington, May 6.—President Coolidge and his breakfast guests today had a heavy laugh over a story told by Speaker Longworth, who was among the prominent republicans present. Longworth said he got the story from a democratic congressman who had asked whether it would be proper to tell the story at an Al Smith dinner, where he was about to speak.

A Protestant in a small western city was an intimate friend of a Father Murphy.

"I've joined the Klan," he told Father Murphy confidentially one day. "But it won't break up our friendship."

"I don't know," Father Murphy replied. "I won't get along with the Klan."

"We are not against Irish Catholics or German Catholics," the new klansman explained. "We only fight the Roman Catholics."

Two Carloads Of Cattle Here For Rodeo May 14

Two solid carloads of cattle will arrive in Atlanta Sunday for exhibition purposes and for entertainment purposes to be staged at the rodeo and stampee May 14-21 at Lakewood amusement park, it was announced Friday by Chick Hannan, promoter.

The cattle will be long horns from Texas and will be used in bulldozing and roping contests slated for the show, where experts from all sections of the country will congregate to compete for $10,000 in prizes to be awarded by the Junior Order United American Mechanics. Second speakers were for Mercer, Robert L. Gannels, Elberton, Ga.; for Tech, Lee B. Mann.

Lakewood will be ready for the greatest rodeo event of the history of the south, when the big gates of the park swing open May 14. J. Oscar Mills, secretary of the Southeastern Rodeo Association, which owns and operates the park, announced Friday.

Every comfort and convenience is being added for the thousands of patrons who are expected to throng the grounds from all parts of the south. Cattle and stock will be pastured in the enclosure on the banks of the lake which is surrounded by the large track on which most of the bulldozing acts will be staged.

Gates of the park open at 10 o'clock each morning and close at 11 o'clock at night week days.

Sacco - Vanzetti Board of Review Believed Likely

New York, May 6.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Daily Eagle has received from Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, considering appointment of a commission to review the case of Nicol Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, sentenced to die for destroyed several houses in the business section of the town.

The newspaper says the governor told its staff correspondent in Boston that regardless of whether he names a board to study the record of the case or does it himself, the final decision will not be left to the courts of the commonwealth, but will be assumed by him.

Three plans are under consideration, the governor said, a commission to review the case and report to him; an advisory board to assist him in study of the matter, or a review undertaken by the governor without assistance.
